FREE CHEST X-RAY—These employees of Cone Mills are shown taking advantage of the free chest x-ray offered by the Guilford County Health Department and the North Carolina State Board of Health. They are, John Scott (at the machine) superintendent of Proximity Plant; Miss Betty Bryant of the Main Office; Mrs. Leo Russell, Mrs. Denver McDonald and Carlton Jones, all employees of Proximity Plant. Today is the last day for the mobile unit to be at Proximity. The one at White Oak will remain until next Wednesday at 5 p. m.

MEET IN JAPAN—These Shores brothers were delighted when their military paths crossed in Sasebo, Japan last month. They are PFC Owen Shores and Paul W. Shores, ET/2, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shores, 1503 16th Street. Paul had been in Japan and Korea alternately for the past several months and heard that his brother's ship would reach Sasebo on November 14. He began an immediate search for him. They had a pass for part of one day which they spent together. Paul left Sasebo on November 24 and will reach Pearl Harbor on December 21. Owen will continue his duties in Korea.

Gordon Williams

Police Chief Speaks To Proximity Y's Men

Police Chief Jeter Williamson spoke to the members of the Proximity Y's Men's Club Tuesday evening on juvenile delinquency in Greensboro and what steps can be taken to prevent it. He was introduced by Hobart Souther.

Chief Williamson asked the question "At what age does a boy or girl turn bad?" He stated if we could answer this question, our problem would be practically solved.

He gave five major factors that influence a young person's life or which can make the child a respectable person or a delinquent. The five factors were: the church, government, schools, community, and the child's home.

He stated that the best way to curb juvenile delinquency is to prevent it from beginning. For schools and churches-to develop a child's talents, to provide adequate recreation for the child, and for parents to take more interest in their children.

Guests of the club were: Rev. John Edwards, Gordon Williams, Bill Lilly, Stoni Johnson, Rev. O. L. Brown and Mrs. Funderburk.

White Oak Matron's To Meet Dec. 16

White Oak Matron's Club will meet at 11:00 o'clock Wednesday, December 16 for a luncheon meeting at the White Oak Y. Pollayanna gifts will be exchanged between the group and a cash contribution will be given to go for some worthy cause.

Mrs. Stoni Johnson and Mrs. Lowell Steele will serve dessert and coffee.

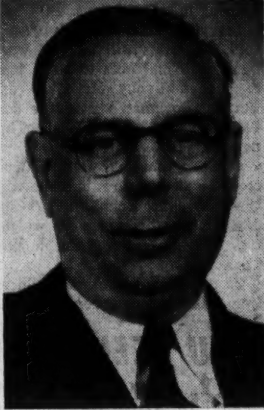

P.T.A. Board Host To Faculty Group

Executive board of Proximity PTA was host at a buffet dinner last Tuesday night, honoring the school faculty and their husbands and wives. About 70 attended.

Mrs. Jackie Haislip, Raymond Smith and Monroe Whitt gave their movie pantomime. Gifts were exchanged around the decorated tree.

Program

Pauline Woosley Class of Carraway Memorial Methodist Church will have a Christmas program on Sunday, December 20 at 3 o'clock.

Gus Hund

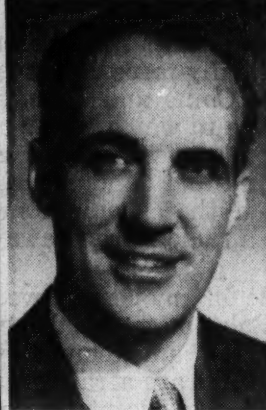

Gus Hund To Retire From Cone Mills Inc.

Gus Hund has made known his plans to retire on January 1st as merchandise head of towels, terry cloth and diapers for Cone Mills Inc., New York. He will have completed 28 years of service with the Cone organization, having joined in 1926 to take charge of sales and production of Cone's towel mills.

He first came into the domestic market in 1904 as office boy for Whitman & Phelps who were succeeded in turn by W. H. Burgess & Co., and Tatum Pinkham & Greer. While he was generally known as a specialist in towels and bed sheets, he also handled during his career the sale and production of woven bedspreads, table cloths and damask, colored woven cotton suitings, covert cloths and industrial fabrics.

Through his many years in the market he has seen and participated in many changes in towel types from the lowly unbleached fringed Turkish towel to the glamorous colorful types of today. Cone entered into the manufacturing of Turkish towels and terry products at its Cliffside division in 1927. This mill was completely integrated, doing its own purchasing of cotton, spinning, weaving and finishing.

Under Mr. Hund's direction the company pioneered in the mass production of solid color towels, sensing the trend toward styling in the early 1930s. At that time the solid colors were sold mostly in the fall season for ornamental use but to (Continued on page 4)

David Fleming, Jr.

David Fleming To Succeed Mr. Hund

David J. Fleming, Jr., will become merchandise manager of towels, terry cloth and diapers at Cone Mills Inc., New York City, effective January 1st. Since January 1942 he has been assistant to Mr. Gus Hund, presently manager of these divisions who will retire on January 1st.

During the critical war years when supplies were short, he assisted Mr. Hund in seeing that an equitable distribution was made to customers of Cone household products. He also assisted Mr. Hund in merchandising developments, including Cone's Super Spongy texture. This development came after years of market study and technical research to meet consumer demand for a towel with both color appeal and fast absorbency.

After working for about a year at James B. Colgate & Co., a Wall Street brokerage firm, Mr. Fleming joined the Cone organization in July 1933 with the expectation of starting a sales career. He was first assigned as a general office boy to the heads of merchandising departments. Later he was moved to the selling floor where he handled samples, assisted salesmen and learned the various lines.

In 1935 he was assigned to the New York City sales force where he called on manufacturers and wholesalers with the Cone lines. After about a year of general sales experience he was selected to specialize in the selling of towels to the department store and wholesale trades, travelling out of New York City. His territory covered (Continued on page 4)

Office Group Sees Mr. Cone's Pictures

The Main office staff of Cone Mills Corporation had a pleasant surprise this week when they were guests of President Herman Cone at the showing of motion pictures he made while a member of the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference of the Department of Defense.

The colored pictures were made at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., and at Fort Benning Ga., and on board the Aircraft Carrier Tarawa.

Many have remarked upon excellence of Mr. Cone's photography.

Thomas Cousins

Two Promotions At Pineville

Harold O. Carpenter, Jr. has been made assistant superintendent of Pineville Plant of Cone Mills Corporation, effective January 1, according to William H. White, assistant vice president of the company and manager of the Pineville Plant. Robert Crews, has been made personnel assistant there to succeed Mr. Carpenter. Both have been working under the company's training program.

The new assistant superintendent, is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Carpenter, 1814 Walker Avenue. His father has been connected with Revolution Division office for a number of years.

Receiving the B.S. degree in textiles from North Carolina State College, Raleigh, in 1950, Mr. Carpenter came to Cone Mills as a trainee in White Oak Plant. He was there until November of 1951, when he was made personnel assistant at Pineville. During World War II, Mr. Carpenter served two years in the Navy as Yeoman 2c.

Mr. Crews, a Greensboro native, received the A.B. degree from Guilford College in December, 1952. He came to work in the Carding Department at Proximity Plant in January, 1953 and in April entered the training program. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Crews, 515 Summit Avenue.

Christmas Music

Cesar Cone School Glee Club will take part in the annual Christmas music by the all-city elementary glee club at West Market Street Methodist Church Sunday morning, December 13, at 11 a. m.

Family Campers Have Reunion

Last summer's family campers had a reunion last Saturday at Camp Herman and made plans for evening outing in the Spring. Three won door prizes which were a free week at camp next summer. They are Dean Crabtree, Carol Lewey and the C. B. Wilsons. Dale Roberts of the Cone Memorial YMCA staff, welcomed the group. Each family brought a basket lunch. Mrs. Lowell Steele assisted Mr. Roberts in operation of the event.

Those present were: Haw River—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reed, Shirley Reed and Francis Reed.

Gibsonville—Mrs. Annie Allred, Mrs. Mariette Wyrick, Mrs. Minnie Randolph, Mrs. Ethel May, Mrs. Dorothy Cates.

Proximity—Mrs. Myrtle (Granny) Everhart, Mrs. Maude Dickerson, Mrs. T. R. Noah, Joey Noah, Mrs. Gertrude Murphy, Mr. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. Lydia Beeker, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robertson, William Robertson, Jackie Blum, David Blum, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Riley, Hope Riley, Maureen Riley, Mrs. C. L. Crabtree, Dean and Mike Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wilson, Richard and Charles Wilson, Barbara and Velma Komar and Mrs. Mamie Caviness.

White Oak—Mrs. Roxie Cates, Mrs. Kathleen Cole, Mrs. Lena Manuel, Becky and Mike Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Childress, Donna Vee Brady, June Beverly, Mrs. Florence Fruitt, Margie Fruitt, Mrs. Francis Harris, Linda Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Vernard Kendricks, Judy Kendrick, and Carol Lewey.

Carraway Circle Has Meeting

Circle No. 1 of Carraway Memorial Methodist Church met with Mrs. Otto Burnside, 2404 Spruce Street, Monday night.

Mrs. L. C. Harris had the devotional. The group exchanged gifts. They presented Mrs. Burnside, who is chairman, with a special gift. They sang Christmas carols.

Those attending were Mesdames R. E. Loman, J. B. McIntyre, J. H. Wrenn, E. L. Reece, Lala Ward, J. L. Thronbro and R. R. Wyrick.

Well Baby Club

Attending the well baby clinic on Church Street Ext. this week were Cathy Morris and Ann Mathews.

Gold Coast Native Has African Wood Carvings

Over the years, The Textorian has carried feature stories on several employees who are natives of foreign lands. About two years ago, this paper carried a story on Nick Dagadu, native of the African Gold Coast, who was working in the Carding Department at White Oak Plant and also attending A. and T. College.

Last June, Nick, received his B.S. degree in horticulture from A. and T. He is still employed at White Oak and hopes to start on his M.A. degree at Michigan State in the near future.

One of Nick's friends in Africa has recently sent him some native hand carvings of solid ebony and papao wood. People in Africa who do this type of work are very rare. In some cases they are disabled. Nick is acting as a kind of middle man in getting these wood carvings sold for his friend.

The group of art objects consists of an elephant of ebony with real ivory eyes and tusks, ebony book ends, an ebony bust, a monster of papao and a dragon of papao. They are considered good representations of primitive art.

Ebony is black, very hard and valuable. These trees are never cut unless they have grown quite large and quite old. In fact, says Nick, it is very difficult to tell the age of ebony trees, because they grow so slowly and the concentric rings are hard to detect. This wood which never rots and which grows in the mountains of West Africa, was used to make spears in the olden days.

Whole spears and sharp knives, blade and all, used to be made of the hard black wood. Today, ebony is mostly for ornamental purposes. Tribal chieftans carry ebony scepters or clubs which are topped with solid gold.

The papao wood is used for ornamental purposes and also for furniture because of its durability. The dragon and the monster in Nick's collection are made of this light brown wood.

He states that the natives say that dragons at one time lived in caves and would occasionally come down to the villages and frighten the people.

The wooden monster represents what is among primitive peoples conceived of as the god of the spirit of war. This grotesque piece is the largest of the group.

Anyone interested in purchasing one or more of these objects is asked to get in touch with Mr. Dagadu through The Textorian office or through Norman Pinkerton of the personnel office at White Oak.

RETIRING—Walter Kincaid, assistant overseer of the Carding Department at Proximity Plant, is shown sitting in the chair which his fellow employees gave him upon his retirement last week. Mr. Kincaid has been employed at Proximity since 1928.

AFRICAN ART—White Oak employee Nick Dagadu received the above wood carvings of ebony and papao to sell for a friend on the African Gold Coast, where Nick comes from. At left is the ebony elephant with ivory tusks and eyes, next is the dragon of papao, then the ebony book ends and the papao dragon and the ebony bust. Nick didn't choose to pose with his objects of art.

Deep Seated Reasons

Relations with Red China presents one of the greatest problems this country has ever faced. Fundamentally, the principles involved are so great that our attitude toward, and relationship with, that country will have a permanent effect upon our government and future economy.

It may be that we are not realistic and do not possess the same sixth sense in handling international problems as the British are credited with possessing.

This country has reasons for its reluctance to accept Red China or to look upon Communism with a more friendly attitude. Those reasons are deep-seated. The roots of distrust and fear of Communism go down to the very vitals of the American concept of both government and human beings. Our nation has always sought to protect the rights of the individual and has continuously placed an extremely high value on human life. This country, even before it became an independent nation, was deeply steeped in spirituality and accepted as a fact that men possessed souls which could not be dissipated or destroyed.

Communism not only does not accept those principles but is antagonistic toward them. For that reason, it is not strange that our statesmen cannot swallow Communist China or Communist Russia and accept them on the same basis that we accept the free nations of the world.

In many quarters of the world we are being condemned for our failure to adopt a realistic approach to the Communist problem as a whole and to Red China in particular.

We are advised that Red China is now an established nation in the world and that we are extremely shortsighted by not accepting them as such and welcoming them into the fold of the United Nations as a participating member.

We are informed that not only has Great Britain established intimate trade relations with Red China but feels that it is to the best interest of the entire world to have Communist China a member of the United Nations. It is generally recognized that Great Britain is a past master in diplomacy and the United States has been accused of repeatedly fumbling the ball in international relations and in diplomatic maneuvers. That may be true, but we cannot overlook the fact that Great Britain today has lost much that she at one time possessed which made her great. We speak not alone of her provinces, but more particularly of her attitude toward individual rights and opportunities. Great Britain today is a Socialistic nation. Her Socialism may have been born of necessity for preservation, but to put it mildly, we do not like Socialism or any other type of regimented society which destroys the elements of freedom and enterprise which have helped build this nation in such a manner as no other plan of human relations could have.

It may be that world events have taken such a turn as to eventually force us to recognize and accept Red China and Communism as a realistic force to which we must pay homage. When we do, we will have sacrificed some very sacred and fundamental American principles. If that should come about, it will indicate a radical trend away from Americanism.

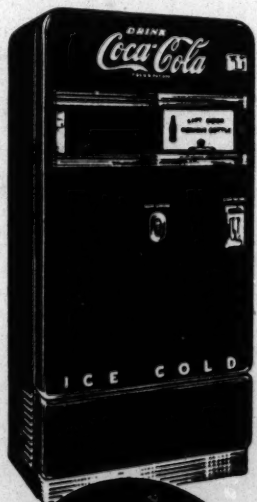

It would be difficult for any person, even with the wisdom of a Solomon, to decide between war and destruction and temporary peace and Communism. We are afraid that our leaders will be forced to accept the responsibility for making such a decision.

Miss Schiffman's Audubon Junior Clubs appeared on Television Tuesday at station WFMV-TV. They were guests of Miss Ann Locke, of the Piedmont Bird Club, who interviewed them about their bird club activities. Children who took part were Jean Gillie, president of the Fifth-Sixth Grade Club; David Barbour, president of the Fourth Grade Club; Charles Morris and Jerry Craig. The program was part of Carroll's Corner, a regular WFMV-TV event.

Michael Craddock brought an alligator to our room this week. Wayne Fitchett of Miss Rowland's third grade brought a turtle. The following officers were elected for the grade: president, Bobby Ball, vice president, Wayne Fitchett, sec-

On Dec. 3, Mrs. Smith's sixth grade will give a radio program on China.

The pupils from Miss Heffner's fifth grade enjoyed a trip to the Greensboro Historical Museum Friday afternoon. Miss Armfield made colonial life really live for them again. Patricia Crowder, Donna Vee Brady, Phyllis Chrisco, and several others made special reports to the class on the Colonial kitchen early ways of making light, and wearing in colonial days.

Larry Kirkman is sick with a cold. The class will be glad when he is well and able to come back to school. Bobby McCaskill and Burwell Cockman visited the dentist last week. Michael Weichel has new glasses.

Carl Pegram and Gerald Crum took the two white rats home with them for the Thanksgiving holidays. From their gain in weight, the rats must have had a nice Thanksgiving.

On Saturday, Dec. 5, the children from Miss Heffner's room will go to Woman's College to give a demonstration in creative rhythms for the North Carolina Physical Education Teachers meeting. Every child is planning to go and participate in the dances.

Church Teams

Fay Gilbert, physical director for Cone Memorial YMCA, states that plans are now under way to form a junior and intermediate basketball league among the churches in the Cone Mills Community. Notices have been sent to the pastors of the local churches.

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

It is a privilege to be a Pythian, a pleasure to be a Dokkie.

Pope in his "Essay on Man" said: "An honest man is the noblest work of God." Then there was Richard Crashaw in his "Epitaph upon Mr. Ashton" who said: "Here lies a truly honest man." O yes, don't forget Shakespeare in "Hamlet" as he so beautifully penned:

"Ay, sir; to be honest, as the world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand." The reputation for honesty is the biggest and best asset a man can have today. I like to think that all men are honest until such events in the course of association causes me to conclude otherwise. It is always best in our dealings to allow our hearts and not our heads decide for us the integrity of others. In this complex world it is not difficult to distinguish the honest man from the dishonest for a man's record for integrity is open for inspection. Ask any honest man for reference and he will with pride refer you to those he has done business with, and it is then that you get a true picture of the honest man. By the same token you can get an estimate of the dishonest man. When A. T. Stewart opened his store in New York City, a little old lady came in to purchase some goods to make a dress. Naturally she wanted to know if the goods would stand being washed, whether it would wear well, etc. The clerk assured the little old lady that the goods were satisfactory in every way. Mr. Stewart, who overheard the conversation, said to his "anxious to make a sale" clerk: "Why did you deceive the woman in that fashion? You know the goods will not wash—we have lost a customer, for she will discover that she has been deceived and will never return to our store." The clerk laughed in the face of Mr. Stewart and said: Mr. Stewart, you were never intended for the dry goods business and you can't last very long." But he lasted. He lasted until he became the proprietor of the greatest retail commercial concern in our country. He lasted until the president of the United States invited him into his cabinet. He lasted until he became one of the first millionaires in America. He lasted until the name of A. T. Stewart became synonymous for sterling worth and success of business. Lincoln walked ten miles to correct a mistake and to prove his integrity. He became president. I don't mean to infer that his honesty was a direct result of his becoming president. I do mean to infer, however, that people as a whole, business concerns in general, would much rather have a man whom they can trust and depend. Pythianism places great emphasis upon truthfulness, realizing that only by exerting truth in word and deed toward all men can there be a full life of faith in mankind as intended from the beginning of time.

The Cone Pythian Lodge 258 voted unanimously to sign a contract with the Robb Associates, Hollywood, California to put on a city wide "Baby Show." No definite date has been set but in all probability it will be held the early part of the New Year. The Show will be divided into four divisions: Health, Beauty, Motion Pictures, Royalty or Popularity. Other Lodges over the state has participated in similar events by the Robb Associates and from the reports have derived a great deal of good therefrom both for themselves, the babies' parents and the community as a whole. More information will be forthcoming about the "Show" as soon as a date has been set and the machinery for the event put into motion.

Pythian W. B. Burke gave a brief account of the Christmas funds for the Children at the Pythian Home in Clayton received thus far. Many Pythians have not responded to the letter sent them as yet, therefore, we sincerely trust that you will not wait too late to get in your gift to Pythian Burke or one of the committee as a great deal must be done in the way of buying clothing, etc.

for the children. Thanking you for your immediate attention to your Children's Christmas joy and pleasure.

Pythians not attending the supper and dance last Saturday evening missed out according to the report of Pythian T. G. Watkins and Ray Payne. Many attended the social event and from all accounts a very good evening was enjoyed by all. Pythian Burke announced that the next social event will be held on New Year's evening at the Castle Hall at 8:00 p. m.

Pythian J. B. Massey is a patient at Duke Hospital. He would appreciate cards.

Proximity Y's Men Observe Seventh Year Of Activity

Last week the Proximity Y's Men's Club celebrated its seventh year of civic activity at Cone Mills. The club was chartered as a service club of the Y.M.C.A., December 6, 1946, by Woodrow Hartsell of Kannapolis, who was international director. The first officers of the club were Raymond Kincaid, president; Wade Jenkins, 1st vice president; Jack Marshall, 2nd vice president; and Fred Newnam, secretary-treasurer. Twenty-three members were in the organization when it was chartered in 1946. The club has 30 active and two inactive members. The Proximity club is a part of the International Organization of Y's Men's Clubs which includes clubs in 28 countries and 411 clubs.

While the essential character of the Y's Men's Club follows along the lines of Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, and other well-established clubs, a significant difference is noted in its interpretation of their name "Men of and for the Y." It is a service club to serve by active and personal effort in carrying forward every phase of the program of the Young Men's Christian Association.

"Men of the Y" places a responsibility on each member of the Y's Men's club for volunteer service of such a nature as will help fulfill both the purpose of the Y's Men's club and the local Y.M.C.A.'s. The local club meets these objectives by such projects as lawn parties, basketball, baseball, and golf tournaments, halloween carnivals for children, little league baseball team, presents Citizenship awards to the most outstanding boy and girl in the community, and many other civic projects.

White Oak Women To Have Party, Dec. 14

White Oak Community Club is planning to have its annual Christmas party Monday, December 14, at the White Oak YMCA at 7:30.

Every member attending will bring a 50 cent Pollyanna gift for exchanging with other members of the group.

Because this meeting is a week earlier this year, members are urged to keep in mind this new date.

northern Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, and was later enlarged to include Illinois, Iowa and parts of Wisconsin, Nebraska and Missouri. Between mid Western trips he also travelled to Connecticut, parts of Massachusetts and Rhode Island and called on New York resident buying offices.

In 1941 he assisted the New York City sales manager in handling manufacturers and wholesalers until becoming Mr. Hund's assistant the following year.

day of course are popular the year round as a utility as well as style item.

Further sensing consumer demand in wanting a towel both colorful and highly absorbent, the towel department developed a new product called the Super Spongy towel which was the result of years of scientific research and merchandising study. This was not a minor task for a mill to handle. The Cliffside plant had to be thoroughly modernized in every phase of production to achieve the desired results.

Mr. Hund has also played an important part in the development of terry cloth. This increasingly popular sportswear fabric is now found not only in beach wear and robes, but also in T shirts and sportshirts for men, women and children; it is used for shoes and bags, and new apparel fashions call for terry lining and trim. What was at one time only a plain white terry cloth operation has branched out into a wide variety of designs, including stripes, checks, plaids and solid colors.

Mr. Hund's experience brought him to know many prominent merchants in department and chain stores, and in the wholesale, catalog and export fields. He served on industry advisory committees during the NRA, OPA, WPB and OPS days.

When son takes the car, it isn't the upkeep that bothers the old man—it's the turnover.

The annual increase in the number of elementary school age is expected to continue unabated for several years, as a direct consequence of high birth rates since the end of World War II, according to the American Peoples Encyclopedia Yearbook for 1953.
